

CHRISTOPHER PUSCIAN

Chris created Goal Line Sportswear in 1986 while still in college. The original idea came from a need to make available logo shirts and hats for his teammates. He further expanded the business during downtime while playing professional ice hockey for 4 years. The company specializes in team uniforms for all sports, and custom embroidered and printed clothing for athletic teams, licensed materials, corporate events, corporate uniforms and country club apparel. Call Chris for your next company golf outing or sales competition.

Three years ago, he opened a division in Cologne, Germany to market Baseball uniforms and equipment to Europe. This division is headed by his brother Tim as Vice President and currently is the exclusive European distributor for Hoosier Bats (the bat used by Sammy Sosa) and the German distributor for Ringer Baseball equipment.

Another division of Goal Line owns and manages professional and top armature sports teams. The Riot Roller Hockey team plays in Major League Roller Hockey (a professional league) and Goal Line manages a team in the Women's division. Goal Line also advises the Dublin City Riot of the Irish Inline Hockey League, the Irish National Inline Hockey Team, the German National Baseball Teams as well as many other armature and professional sports teams.
